EL ESPEJO

Webb School

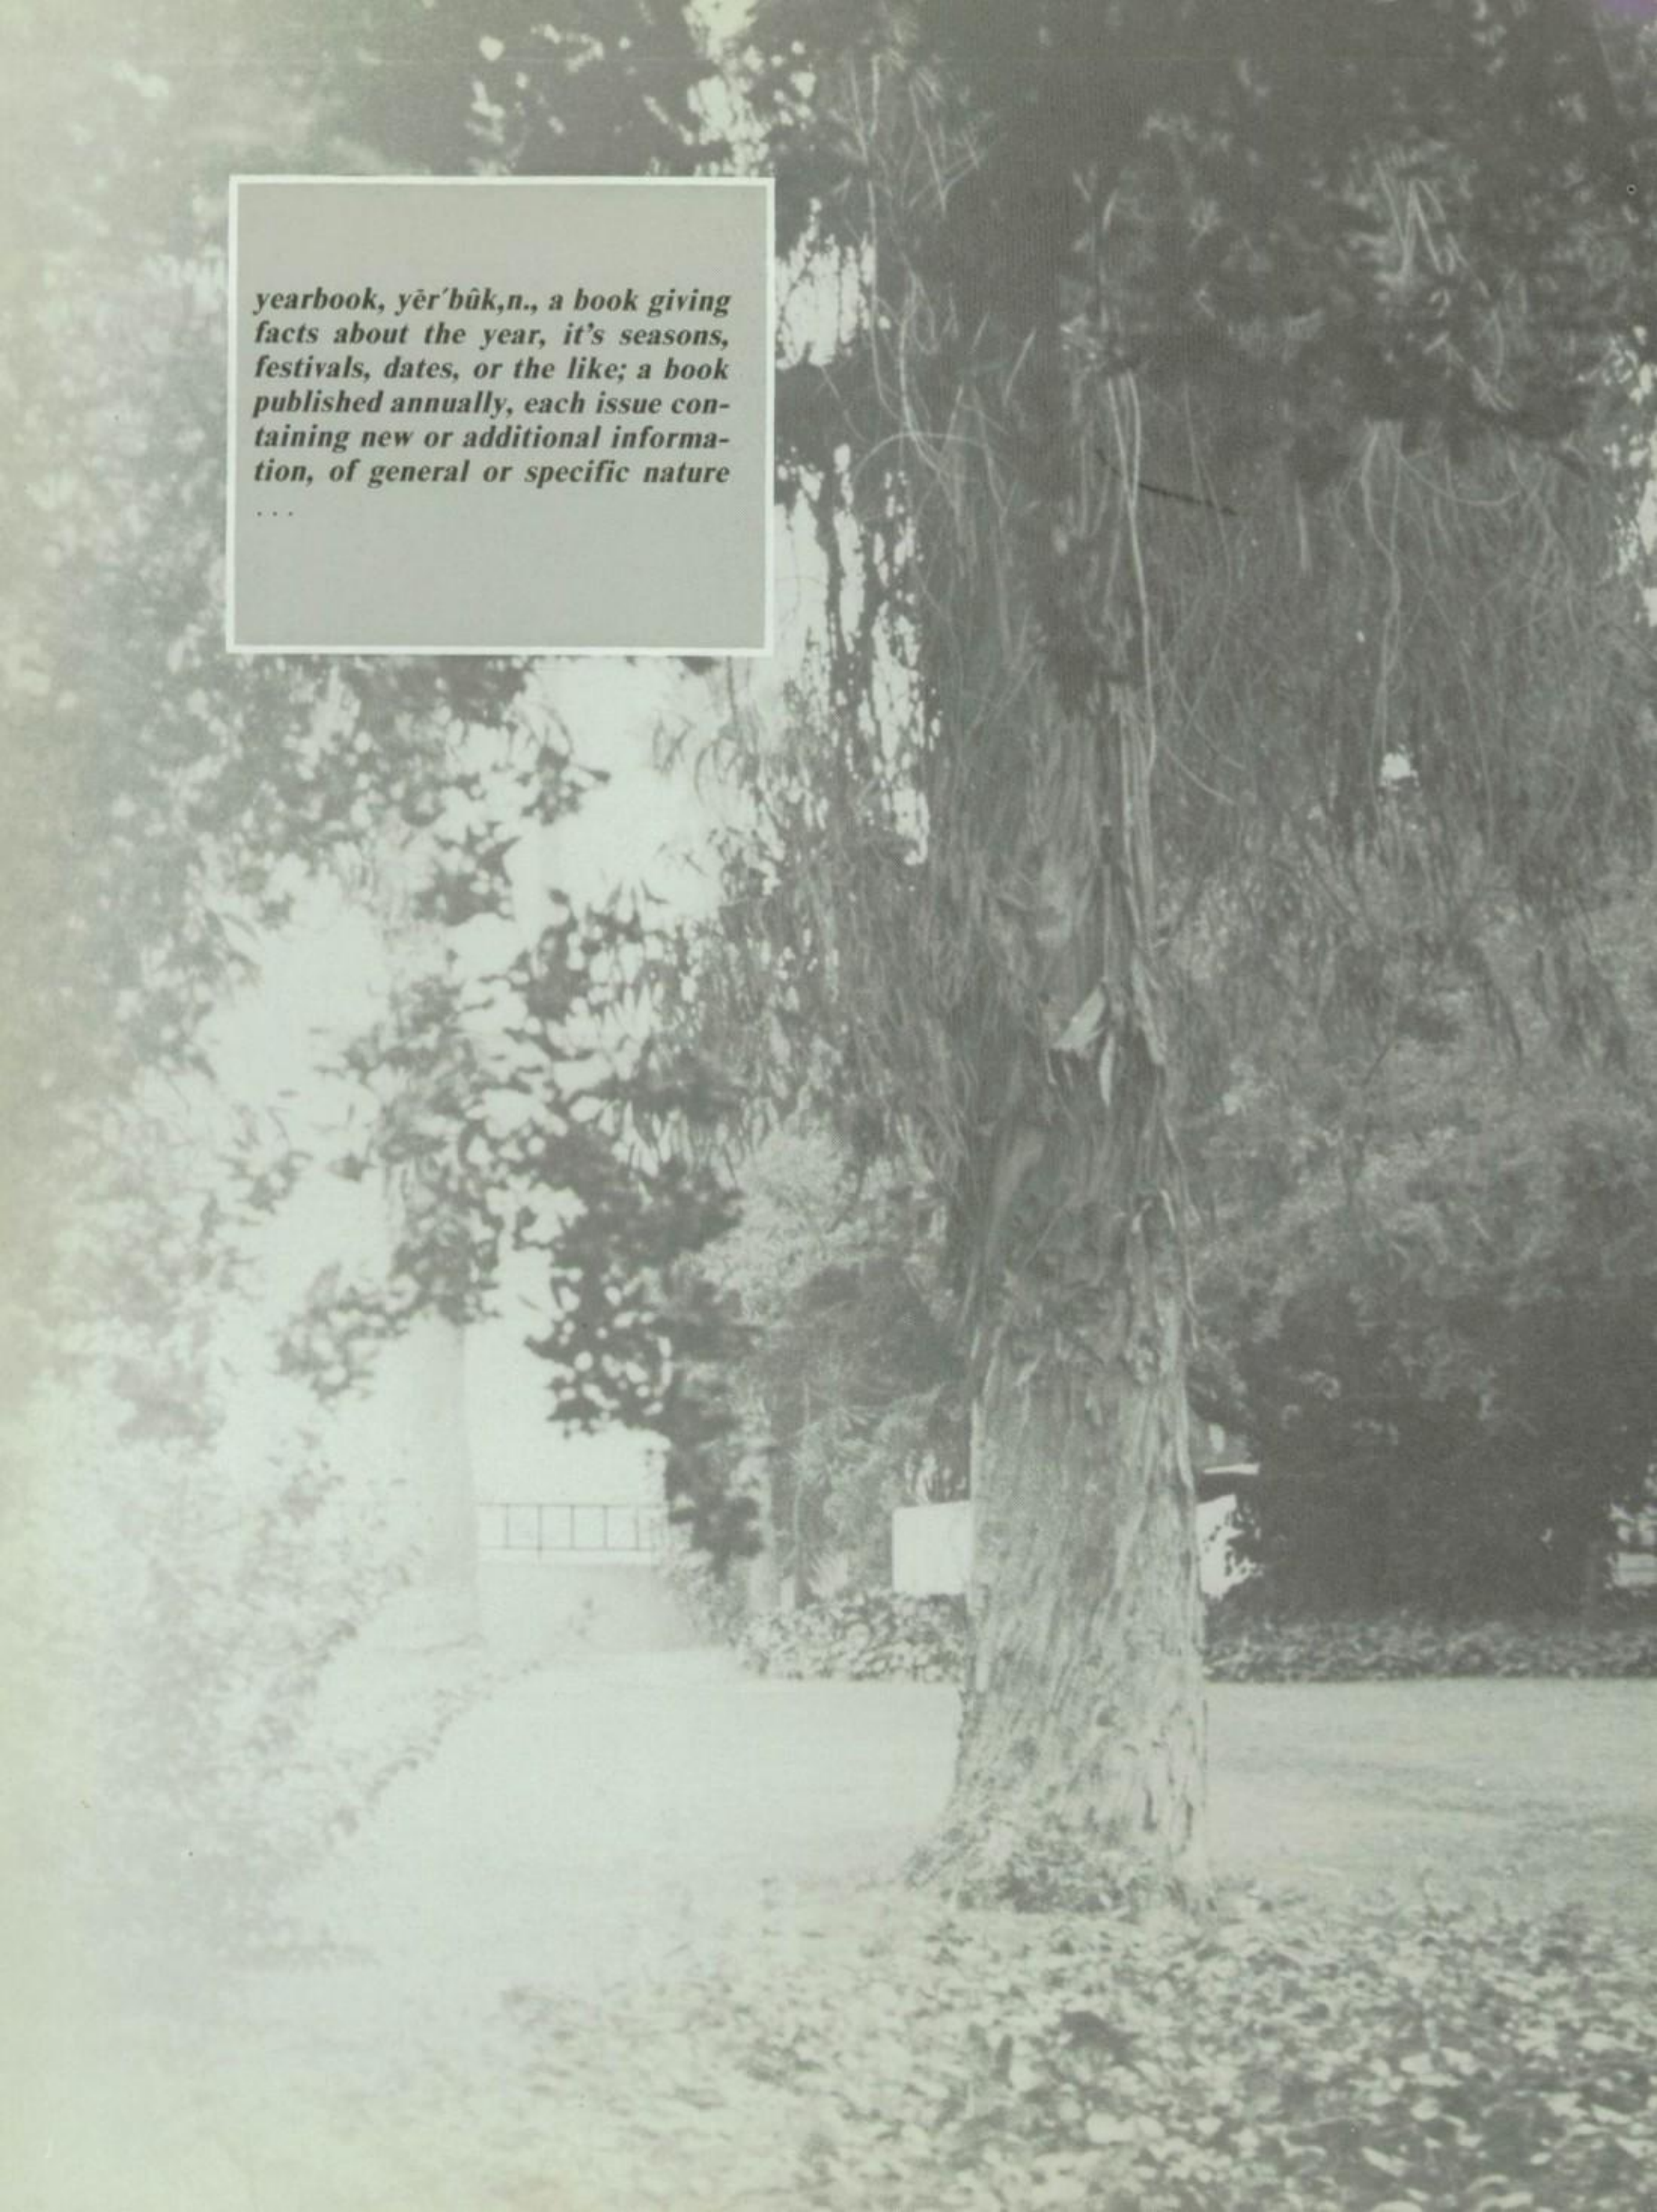

A black and white photograph of a church bell tower. The tower is constructed of brick or stone and features a large bell in an arched opening. Above the bell is a smaller cross, and the tower is topped with a dome and a larger cross. The building is partially hidden behind a dense thicket of trees and bushes. Two tall, thin trees with dark foliage are prominent on either side of the tower.

WEBB SCHOOL OF CALIFORNIA
1983

yearbook, yēr'bûk, n., a book giving facts about the year, it's seasons, festivals, dates, or the like; a book published annually, each issue containing new or additional information, of general or specific nature

...

dedicate, ded' ə • kât, to set apart for a sacred purpose; often reflection . . . To inscribe or address to a patron or a friend as a mark of esteem.

Since coming to Webb in 1972, she has sat at bedside with the ill, healed a variety of cuts, bruises and broken bones, and, above all, treated the Webb student body and the entire community with the utmost courtesy, care, and respect. Always pictured with a warm smile on her face, she is a dedicated, tenacious individual who not only strives to keep each student in the best of health, but also makes a conscious effort to engage in friendly conversation and offer her assistance to all members of the Webb community, whether it be social, academic or emotional.

It is for all of the aforementioned qualities that we dedicate the 1983 El Espejo to Lois Turton.

When this extraordinary lady first came to Webb in 1963, the school was hardly comparable to its present-day standing. Over the past twenty years, the Webb School of California has gone through several drastic changes, which never could have come into being without the countless hours of dedication from this caring woman.

Through working cautiously and tenaciously in the Business Office, she has literally saved the school from many financial crises which probably would have led to the closing of our Alma Mater.

Although she may not be seen by the students as much as she'd like to be, this lady is the major underlying factor in keeping the doors to our school open for us, the Class of 1983, to walk out of, and for many future generations to step through. As a tribute to her contributions, this 1983 El Espejo is dedicated to Ella Zakem.

If you don't play some people's game, they say you have "lost your marbles," not recognizing that, while Chinese checkers is indeed a fine pastime, a person may also play dominoes, chess, strip poker, tiddlywinks, drop-the-soap, or Russian roulette with his brain.*

All I know is that while I am asleep I have neither fear nor hope nor troubles nor any concern about glory. Blessings on the one who invented sleep the cloak that covers all human thoughts; the food that relieves hunger, the water that quenches thirst, the fire that keeps the cold away, the cold that tempers heat — in short, the common currency with which all things are bought, the weight and balance that makes the shepherd equal to the king and puts the fool on equal footing with the wise man. There is only one fault to be found with sleep, according to what I've heard, and that is the fact that it resembles death; for between a sleeping man and a dead one there is very little difference.

Art when really understood is the province of every human being ... When the artist is alive in any person, whatever his kind of work may be, he becomes inventive, searching, daring and a self-expressing creature. He becomes interesting to other people. He disturbs, upsets, enlightens, and he opens the way for a better understanding. Where those who are not artists are trying to close the book, he opens it, shows there are still more pages possible. The world would stagnate without him, and the world would be beautiful with him ... He does not have to be a painter or a sculptor to be an artist. He can work in any medium. He simply has to find gain in the work itself, not outside it ... Art tends toward balance, order, judgement or relative values, the laws of growth, the economy of living - very good things for anyone to be interested in.

Height

A height (altitude) of a triangle is a line segment from a vertex perpendicular to the base.

$A_{triangle} = \frac{1}{2}bh$
 $A_{rectangle} = bh$
 $A_{triangle} = \frac{1}{2}bh$
 $A_{rectangle} = bh$

The volume of any prism equals
the area of the base times the height.

$V = Bh$
B = area of the base
h = height of the prism

THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST

Big Bear returned the kick for a TD. The conversion was missed. After the kickoff there was a fumble in the Webb backfield Willis and Butterfield. Our own nemesis-Davenport of Big Bear, caught the fumble in mid air and ran for a touchdown. The conversion attempt was again missed, and these two misses proved fatal for Big Bear. Thus, however, Big Bear had twelve points without running an offensive play. Willis took the kickoff back to the mid stripe, and from there, Webb blasted down to the Big Bear one. Sam Neff took ball from there and went over. Thorn-y passed to Newman for the point after touchdown. In the second quarter Willis made off tackle for sixty yards, literally clearing the last ten. Adams converted the score stood 14-12 at the half. In third quarter Big Bear marched down field after recovering an onside kick. As first and goal to go on our four-line when the Webb line stiffened and four straight downs. On the fourth, and Sauto viciously tackled the Big runner, but unfortunately for us, our friend Davenport picked up the run-fumble and waltzed over for the touchdown. They attempted to pass for conversion, but it was knocked down. A see-saw battle, Adams blocked a near punt on the ten-yard line in the

from their own twenty and held St. Bernadine until the half. In the third quarter Webb drove down the field, and on the fourth down Willis swept the end for a TD from the three-yard line. One of the high points of the game was Willis' collision with one of the St. Bernadine female rooters. Willis got up, but she didn't! From then on Webb dominated the offense, but there was no further scoring and the second string finished out the fourth quarter. The final score read Webb 20, St. Bernadine's 8.

Webb Downs St. Bernadine 20-2

In its third game, Webb opened up in the first five minutes for two touchdowns. After being beaten the week before by Baldwin Park, they came back to demolish St. Bernadine's in a home game. We kicked off, and Willis intercepted St. Bernadine's first pass on their twenty-two yard line, and on the next play, Willis ran down to the two. Sam Neff then smashed over for the touchdown, and Adams converted. After receiving the kickoff, St. Bernadine's again attempted to pass, but Bell intercepted. After a few running plays, Neff faded back and threw a thirty-yard strike to Adams in the end zone. Adams' kick was blocked. St. Bernadine's staged a rally in the second quarter and drove down to the Webb two-yard line, but Webb stop-

THE MUSICAL BOX

While Henry Hamilton-Smythe minor (8) was playing croquet with Cynthia De-Blaise William (9), sweet-smiling Cynthia raised her mallet high and gracefully removed Henry's head. Two weeks later, in Henry's nursery, she discovered his treasured musical box. Eagerly she opened it and as "Old King Cole" began to play a small spirit-figure appeared. Henry had returned-But not for long, for as he stood in the room his body began ageing rapidly, leaving a child's mind inside. A lifetime's desires surged through him. Unfortunately, the attempt to persuade Cynthia Jane to fulfill his romantic desire, lead his nurse to the nursery to investigate the noise. Instinctively Nanny hurled the musical box at the bearded child, destroying both.

*The Lord is my shepherd,
I shall not want
He makes me down to lie Through pastures green he leadeth me the silent waters by
With bright knives he releaseth my soul
He maketh me to hang on hooks in high places
He converteth me to lamb
cutlets
For lo, he hath great power,
and great hunger
When cometh the day

Art is not something created by a person but something that lives within a person. The artist and his art are entirely different entities; the art is a body of ideas, concepts, forms, and sensory imagery which can only be transmitted to humanity by housing itself in a person - an artist - who can introduce the art to human culture. Thus, artists do not strive to create works of art but to become receptive to them. The great works of art, aesthetic or scientific, have always existed but needed a receptor to be made known. To be an artist, you must discipline yourself to be a receptor - this requires the perfection of physical skills, mental skills, and appreciation. Then you can become a receptor; a musician, a writer, a painter, or a scientist with the duty of letting your art come into you and working to express it.

For all we have and are,
For all our children's sake,
Stand up and take the war.
The Hun is at the gate!
Our world has passed away,
In wantonness o'erthrown.
There is nothing left to-day
But steel and fire and stone!

Though all we knew depart,
The old Commandments stand:-
"In courage keep you heart,
In strength lift up your hand."

Once more we hear the word
That sickened earth of old:-
"No law except the Sword Unsheathed and uncontrolled."
Once more it knits mankind,
Once more the nations go
To meet and break and bind
A crazed and driven foe.

Comfort, content, delight,
The ages' slow-bought gain,
They shrivelled in a night.
Only ourselves remain
To face the naked days
In silent fortitude,
Through perils and dismays
Renewed and re-renewed.

Though all we made depart,
The old Commandments stand:-
"In patience keep your heart,
In strength lift up your hand."

No easy hope or lies
Shall bring us to our goal,
But iron sacrifice
Of body, will, and soul.
There is but one task for all-
One life for each to give.
What stand if Freedom fall?
Who dies if England live?

-Kipling

England expects every man will do his duty.

ODE TO JOY
by
SCHILLER:

"O friends, not these strains—
rather let us sing
more pleasing songs, and more joyous."
Joy, thou gleaming spark divine,
Daughter of Elysium, Drunk with ardor, we draw near,
Goddess, to thy shrine.
Thy magic unites again
What custom sternly drew apart;
All mankind become brothers
Beneath thy gentle hovering wing.
He whose happy fortune grants him
Friend to have and friend to be,
Who has won a noble woman,
Let him join in our rejoicing!
Yes—even were it one heart only
Beating for him in the world!
But if he's never known this, let him
Weeping steal from out our ranks.
Joy is drawn by every creature
From the breast of Nature;
All men good and all men evil
Walk upon her rose-strewn path.
Kisses gave she and the ripe grape,
A good friend, trusty to the last;
Even the worm can feel pleasure,
And the Seraph stands before God.
Glad as suns that He hurtles
Through the vast spaces of heaven,
Pursue your pathway, brothers;
Be joyful as a hero in victory.
Millions, be you embraced!
For the universe, this kiss!
Brothers—above the canopy of stars
A loving Father surely dwells.
Millions, do you fall upon your knees?
Do you sense the Creator, world?
Seek Him above the canopy of stars!
Surely He dwells above the stars.

From the Notebooks of Lazurus Long

Do not confuse "duty" with what other people expect of you; they are utterly different. Duty is a debt you owe to yourself to fulfill obligations you have assumed voluntarily. Paying that debt can entail anything from years of patient work to instant willingness to die. Difficult it may be, but the reward is self-respect.

But there is no reward at all for doing what other people expect of you, and to do so is not merely difficult, but impossible. It is easier to deal with a footpad than it is with the leech who wants "just a few minutes of your time, please-this won't take long." Time is your total capital, and the minutes of your life are painfully few. If you allow yourself to fall into the vice of agreeing to such requests, they quickly snowball to the point where these parasites will use up 100% of your time-and squawk for more!

So learn to say NO-and to be rude about it when necessary.

Otherwise you will not have time to carry out your duty, or to do your own work and certainly no time for love and happiness. The termites will nibble away your life and leave none of it for you.

(This rule does not mean that you must not do a favor for a friend, or even a stranger. But let the choice be yours. Don't do it because it is "expected" of you.)

History does not record anywhere at any time a religion that has any rational basis. Religion is a crutch for people not strong enough to stand up to the unknown without help. But, like dandruff, most people do have a religion and spend considerable time and money on it and seem to derive considerable pleasure from fiddling with it.

Sin lies only in hurting other people unnecessarily. All other "sins" are invented nonsense. (Hurting yourself is not sinful-just stupid.)

Everything in excess!. To enjoy the flavor of life, take big bites. Moderation is for monks.

You live and learn, or you don't live long.

Yield to temptation; it may not pass your way again.

The most preposterous notion that H. Sapiens have ever dreamed up is that the Lord God of Creation, Shaper and Ruler of the Universes, wants the saccharine adoration of His creatures, can be swayed by their prayers, and becomes petulant if he does not receive this flattery. Yet this absurd fantasy, without a shred of evidence to bolster it, pays all the expenses of the oldest, largest, and least productive industry in all history.

The profession of shaman has many advantages. It offers high status with a safe livelihood free of work in the dreary, sweaty sense. In most societies it offers legal privileges and immunities not granted to other men. But it is hard to see how a man who has been given a mandate from on High to spread tidings of joy to all mankind can be seriously interested in taking up a collection to pay his salary; it makes one suspect that the shaman is on the moral level of any other can man.

But it's lovely work if you can stomach it.

There is no conclusive evidence of life after death. But there is no evidence of any sort against it. Soon enough you will know. So why fret?

"God split Himself into a myriad parts that He might have friends." This may not be true, but it sounds good-and is no sillier than any other theology.

Only for the moment, and then the moment's gone . . .

Ramblings of An Editor

Well, here it is. The end of the year....Well, almost. Actually, it's exactly 9:31 p.m. and 56 seconds on 2/19/83. I really didn't want to write this editor's page until the end of the year (when I would have the "spirit!"), but we needed all the pages we could to meet last week's deadline. Yes, that's right, we're a week late....What's new?(!!) Anyway, getting back to "spirit," as I mentioned before, I didn't want to write this until it was closer to summer time, until I really could conceive that I was leaving this place that I sometimes call "Home." Yes, I mean Webb. It was funny, though, how I came to have the "proper-end-of-the-year spirit" in the middle of February. What really got me thinking was a letter I received today from the United States Marine Corps. The letter came in a bright, red envelope with these words stamped across the front: "After your senior year is over, what's next?" That really got me thinking. Up until today, it never really stuck me that I was a Senior. No, I take that back. I always knew that I was a Senior, but the consequences of being one never dawned on me. (For all you under-classmen who don't know what I mean, you will in four years if you're lucky enough to graduate from Webb--Ha, Ha!--Good Luck!) Of course, the first consequence of being a Senior at Webb is that I will never return to this campus as a highschool student. That's it. It's all over. No more am I required to be here. A lot of you may think that's great....And it is, but it can be scary....And it is that too. Webb is a protected microcosm. In less than 4 months, 3 months and 15 days to be exact, I will leave this "little world" and venture out into "space." And I will occupy a "real" area in this vast universe, not just room 106.7 in the Alamo. That letter I got from the Marines knocked me out of my "little-Webb-world" of make believe. Now I can truly conceive that my 4-year visit at this motel, and that's all it really is, just a brief stopping place, is converging upon a long-awaited endpoint, that is, graduation. It is time to move on. However, before I leave this grand place, as I know it, not as the class of 86 does, I would like to thank all of you for doing whatever you did for me that resulted in the truly worthwhile experience that I've had here. And, as Editor-in-chief of the yearbook, I hope that this annual, titled "El Espejo," which means "the Mirror," will truly "reflect" the last, irreplacable, happy moments that I and the entire graduating class of 1983 had the opportunity to share w/ you.

Thank you,

Bill Anapoell

Congratulations

CLASS OF 1983

Your energy, dedication and spirit made your class number one for three years. We pray the same qualities will continue to guide your lives. And we'd like to share this thought:

"If one man conquer in battle a thousand times a thousand men, and if another conquer himself, he is the greatest of conquerors. One's own self conquered is better than all other people conquered; not even a god could change into defeat the victory of a man who has vanquished himself."

-Dhammapada
